Grear said the official decision of the FHSAA (Florida High School Athletic Association) Executive Committee was received from Executive Secretary Floyd Lay Friday afternoon, saying the fleet running back can play for the Raiders, although the first two games of the season, including the 21-6 district win over Atlantic, will have to be forfeited. Rowe celebrated the decision by blasting his way over, through and sometimes around the hapless Panthers for long yardage and two touchdowns.

City eyes water and sewer work for the near future

BELLE GLADE—Water and sewer projects with a total estimated price tag of well over $9 million were offered city commissioners Tuesday night as a list of "things that need to be done" in the near future.

"We're not asking for action now," City Manager Robert R. Sanders said when he began the special workshop session, "but we did want to alert you to some things."

Items discussed ranged from redesigning a control system for the city's water intake pumps with a price tag of less than $25,000 to a new raw water intake and a deep well injections system, each of which are estimated to cost more than $2 million.

Some of the projects the city could expect to pay for by itself, some would be partially paid for by grants and others would hopefully be paid for completely by state and federal funds, Sanders said.

Once all the projects mentioned in the briefing are accomplished, if they all are, the city would have a new sewer treatment plant with a 2 million gallon per day capacity and a new water treatment plant with an additional 4 million gallons per day capacity.

Some of the 14 projects discussed are already underway and some won't be begun for several years, if they are ever begun.

One of the projects already underway is the replacement of 65,000 feet of water distribution lines, at the rate of 18,000 feet a year. On the other hand, the commissioners directed the staff to try to come up with a way of avoiding the necessity of building a new raw water intake.

The intake is proposed to be built off Kreamer Island and Public Works Director Ron Sigmon said the project had an original price tag of $1.3 million.

"We've run into a snag, though," Sigmon said, pointing out that most of the pipeline which would be run from the present pumping station on Tory Island, if the work had been done a few months ago, would have been laid on dry ground. Now it may well have to be run underwater because of the higher lake level.

"It costs $20-$25 a foot to lay 24 inch pipe on dry land," Water Distribution Superintendent Ross Allen explained, "but it costs $75 a foot to lay 24 inch pipe under eight feet of water...and 90 percent of the increased cost is for divers."

Sigmon said the estimated price tag of the raw water intake would have to be at least doubled.

The commission has discussed the need for a new intake for years, because the present water intake in Winnie's Cove is in shallow water. Allen said that even now, with the high lake level, there is only four feet of water covering the present intake. The structure has been completely exposed during past dry seasons.

The relocated intake, into a place where there is more than 12 feet of water which is cleaner than in the Winnie's Cove area, is expected to provide more water at a higher quality than is presently available.

That water wouldn't require the same amount of treatment demanded now and staff chemist Ibrahim Alava said the new intake would probably pay for itself in a few years.

Sigmon said he still hasn't lost hope the city could go in to a joint venture with Pahokee and South Bay which would cost less than a single intake for one city.

Mayor Tom Altman suggested the city might also look for other alternatives, mentioning reverse osmosis, a process which would require a plant Allen said would cost a dollar for every gallon's capacity. That would mean a $10 million plant in the next few years.

The existing plant has a capacity of 6 million gallons per day and Allen said the demand on the plant runs from half that amount in the summer to a high use last season of more than 6 million gallons on at least one day.

He said there is a proposed federal law requiring the city

Unfortunately, tree C proved to be a pretty good receiver and caught ball A to keep half B company. See story and more pictures inside.

Corps gets the job done

BELLE GLADE—Eric Munis added $600,000 to the United States Treasury Monday...at least that's what statistics show the three youths he swore into the Job Corps will pay in taxes during coming years.

It isn't likely Fred Lawler, Paul Hendrix or Aletheia Ellick will become another George Foreman, who used the Corps as a springboard to leave a life of idle vandalism to become heavyweight champion of the world.

But they could follow in the footsteps of the Corps graduate who became the first Black woman parole officer in a large Virginia city, or the graduate who left a job paying 42 cents an hour to enter the Corps and who is now earning $13,000 a year as a government employee.

Munis said he can also help high school graduates from his desk at the Belle Glade office of the Florida State Employment Service (FSE) but the Job Corps is designed for high school dropouts between the ages of 16 and 21, who've found the life of a dropout isn't all it's cracked up to be.

Typically, Job Corps inductees are 17 year old men or 18 year old women who've completed nine years of schooling before dropping out, but only have the reading and math ability of a fifth grader. Half of all enrollees have never seen a doctor or a dentist and only about 55 percent have ever held a full or part-time job.

Before rushing down to sign up with the Corps with the idea of hooking a free bus ride to Kentucky and back as a lark, or to escape a temporary family situation, Munis cautioned the Corps isn't a free and easy ride.

When corpsmembers arrive at one of the Job Corps training centers in District IV (there are no centers in Florida yet but

see Corps P12

JOB CORPS members Fred Lawler, Paul Hendrix and Aletheia Ellick are sworn in Monday by Eric Munis at the Florida State Employment Service office in Belle Glade.

Read the other day where the Department of Health and Rehabilitative Service has some disgruntled employees, a problem shared by many governmental agencies these days.

But instead of "low pay" these workers are becoming demoralized because they haven't been able to do their jobs quickly enough. Their work? Handing out food stamps.

A new computer system has been installed in that program and as a consequence, some food stamp "clients" have had long wait in store for them while they undertake to receive their stamps.

Some of them have even had to come back a second day.

Today in Florida, about 700,000 people receive food stamps through 111 offices in the state.

"It's frustrating to have to face all of them today and have to tell them to come back tomorrow," food stamp supervisor Karen Bradford was quoted as saying.

Well, Ms. Bradford, let me fill you in on a few things that are frustrating to me.

Frustration is getting behind a food stamp "client" in a grocery store. And seeing that client doing out stamps for steaks and other expensive foods while we select chicken and hamburger.

Frustration is reading in the papers where food stamps are used to buy automobiles and liquor and listening to state officials complain that nothing much can be done because of the caseload and red tape.

Frustration is knowing that jobs are indeed available for many of those food stamp clients...maybe not jobs that suit their tastes or that are available locally, but jobs I would not hesitate to take should the need arise.

Frustration is also knowing that the political types who run our government know food stamp clients are a powerful voting force. Indeed, those who receive bounty from the government are more organized than those of us who merely pay taxes.

Frustration is in realizing that food stamps and welfare is not charity anymore...it's a right...so says the National Welfare Rights Organization.

Frustration is in understanding that food stamps distribution is a job for state workers, who start and stop at given hours and many of whom have little or no pride or interest in how well they perform their task.

That's frustration, Ms. Bradford. Being the guy who helps to up the tabs for all these social services. Being the one who works, pays in a third or so of his income so it can be re-distributed to the "needy". Footing the bill for those who won't.

I don't mind helping out those who can't. It's those who won't who disturb me.

I don't know how it feels to be on food stamps or welfare. I've never been there. But I do know how it feels to haul hay and swab decks and perform tasks I didn't necessarily want to do. I've never been without work of some kind or other and doubt seriously that I ever will be.

So I don't know what I assume is the frustration of living off the government dole. I don't know how bad it demeans the individual to have to bare his soul to some petty bureaucrat in order to qualify for stamps or welfare.

But I have a pretty good idea since the IRS makes me bare my financial sole once each year and I know my chances of jail are much greater should I cheat than if I were on stamps and cheated.

Yes, Ms. Bradford. We're all frustrated. You, me, your workers and your clients. But here it's me that I'm most concerned about. Me and the millions like me who support you, your workers and your clients.

That isn't sportsmanship

When a young man goes out for high school football, it's with a feeling of pride that he does so...pride in himself and in his school. He realizes that he'll put in long, hard hours of effort with only slim chance of reward.

But there are those who do not care that this young man is building something honorable and lasting within himself by becoming a member of an athletic team.

That's really what high school sports are all about; a lesson in life, honor and sportsmanship.

Yet at Glades Day School, this lesson has been largely negated by the gutless individuals who last week wrote notes to the Gators and their coaching staff.

Whoever wrote the letters did not have the courage to sign them. The language and undue criticism of the students and their coaches contained in the letters didn't say much for the character of the writer.

Understandably, the Gators are somewhat upset over the notes, which followed in the wake of the team's district loss to Benjamin.

Coach Byron Walker said "it's to be expected" but he was wrong. There is no way the Gators or any other high school team should have to be subjected to this kind of abuse.

While we don't necessarily agree with it, the argument can be made that professional athletes subject themselves to criticism of their performances simply because they are paid professionals.

But with students, the type of criticism contained in the letters the Gators received is nothing short of contemptible.

Four good men

It's one thing to dive into a canal to pull a youngster from a submerged car, and deserves recognition, but when the canal is choked with water hyacinths, the situation becomes even more perilous and perhaps more recognition is deserved.

That was the case recently when a youngster at the municipal marina kicked the car he was in into drive, sending it into the canal at Slim's Fish Camp.

Jessie Lee Padgett's grandfather, Clarence Padgett, was the first to respond but he was only moments ahead of city employees Eddie Becton and Thomas Rogers.

A man at the scene said it appeared for a while as though all five were in danger of losing their lives only feet from the bank but quick thinking on the part of Stan Whitlock and Benny Hughes, two more city employees, resulted in a human chain and things turned out all right.

Two-year old Jessie owes these men his life and we'd also like to commend them.

Race in the race

Race became "a subtle issue" in the County Commission District Two runoff last Thursday, said Dan Hendrix in a weekend news story, explaining why he lost the election when condominium precincts went against him almost four to one.

Race may have had something to do with the outcome in Black precincts such as the two in Riviera Beach and Belle Glade where Hendrix took more than 97 percent of the vote.

If there's a lesson here, it could be that anyone who uses race as an excuse for losing a campaign should be sure race wasn't the reason he picked up as many votes as he did.

CRACKER CRUMBS

BY DEAN JONES

It's gettin' to the point that if I want a little entertainment, something to break the monotony, I don't turn on the telly tube. I walk over to the Belle Glade Police Department.

The way things are going over there in D. Bill's regime, the place is looking like the Glades version of Mission Impossible.

I was takin' the other day to Lieutenant for Life Mike Miller (the title came compliments of Jack Fullenweider) and he was telling me about their latest drug raid.

Sounded like the script was written by one of those super cop shows but, as Mike said, the important thing is that it worked.

The raid took place on Wednesday night and must've left one Belle Glade woman feeling paranoid because it was a second exposure in about a month to the newly devised Wham, Bap technique the local police have adopted.

The first example of the local version of blitzkrieg came several weeks ago during a drug raid on a second floor apartment...not even a ledge outside the windows, mind you.

One of the raidees, a woman, pulled the usual ploy of rushing into the bathroom to flush the evidence down the commode. So far, so good, standard procedure for people in the pot business.

This was different though because about the time she rounded the doorway on her way to the john, she was knocked on her tail by a pole. The pole was being wielded by a man in the city's cherrypicker outside the bathroom window.

The same woman was involved in the latest raid last Wednesday night but she wasn't touched, physically that is, on that one. On the other hand, she had to've been flooded with a vengeance.

The unique thing about that one was the way the fuzz made their presence known...something called forcible entry with a vengeance.

What they did was to drill a two inch hole in the door (using power tools) and then taken on the raid and, above a short length of pipe through the hole.

Attached to the pipe was a 50 foot length of airplane cable and attached to the cable was another cable which was attached to a wrecker, which promptly yanked the door off its hinges.

Lieutenant for Life Miller said it took exactly 35 seconds from the time the drill first bit into the door before they'd yanked the sucker clean off its hinges and 14 fuz were trying to cram their way into the door at once, creating a minor traffic jam.

He said they'd learned the value of a bathroom detail by this time and a couple of guys had been stationed on a tall table just outside the appropriate window this time. They weren't needed though. Everything went too fast.

Those weren't the only two supercop efforts made recently though. There was another one in connection with The Great Cherrypicker Caper.

Just down the inside hall on that one was another apartment the police had a search warrant to but they played it cagey on that one too.

About the time the police were knocking down the first apartment's door with a sledgehammer, creating the commotion which sent the unfortunate woman to her meeting with an eight-foot pole in her bathroom, another team set themselves at the door of the other apartment.

"We figured the commotion would make 'em curious enough," Mike said, "that they'd open their door. Worked too. They opened their door and we were inside before they knew what was happening."

After all that, it looks as though the local police would give their imaginations a rest but don't count on it. Mike already has other plans for Mark Weatherington, a Sheriff's Department detective who's been involved on both the raids.

"The next time," Mike said, "we're gonna give Mark an audit and drop him from a helicopter. That oughta get us a faster entry than we've had yet."

That may be true, Mike, but what happens if he keeps going on through into the ground floor?

Residents persuade school board to revise scores

PAHOKEE — At a meeting of the Palm Beach County School Board held at East Lake Middle School last Wednesday evening, Glades residents were successful in persuading the board members to agree to change the method of reporting test scores from Stanines to Grade Equivalents for West Area Students.

In several previous appearances before the board a group of community leaders and school personnel had sought the change in test score reporting. The group felt grade equivalents were easier for parents to understand.

Helene Franke, assistant superintendent for regular instruction said the scores will be reported in the grade equivalents beginning with the results of the Stanford Achievement Test recently administered to students in grades two through nine, with the first test results scheduled to be returned to the school district the first week in November.

The test scores will be reported in stanines, but will then be re-processed for the West Area Schools in grade equivalents and ready to be sent home to parents by the last of November, said Mrs. Franke.

A status report on the test scores will be made at the Dec. 8th board meeting.

Mrs. Delores Johnson, a parent and a representative of the People Involved in Education asked the board to have the students' test results reported in both stanines and grade equivalents so parents could study the differences.

Mrs. Johnson said the parents should be involved in the decision as to what method is eventually used in the West Area.

"Let's give the parents an opportunity to say what they would like for their children," she said. However, Supt. Thomas Mills said, he needed an immediate decision on "which direction the board wants to go in" since the computers would have to be re-programmed for grade equivalents.

At a previous meeting between Mrs. Franke, concerned persons, and school board officials at the West Area Office, Mrs. Franke said she felt the grade equivalents could be easily misinterpreted by the parents.

Mrs. Johnson also requested that staff members from the West Palm Beach and West Area offices be available to meet with parents to explain the methods of test reporting.

Board Vice Chairman, Robert Howell agreed with Mrs. Johnson's suggestion, saying parents would be able to judge the merits of each system and then decide which method they would like for their children's test score reported in.

CITY EMPLOYEES Stan Whitlock, Bennie Hughes, Eddie Becton and Thomas Rogers were recognized by the Belle Glade City

Commission Monday for their part in rescuing a two-year old child and his grandfather from a canal at the city marina recently.

Census survey to be conducted on school

A sample of households in this area will take part in an annual survey on education to be taken the week of October 16-20, by the Bureau of the Census.

Thomas W. McWhirter, Director of the Bureau's Regional Office in Atlanta, says that interviewers will visit homes to obtain information about current school enrollment at all levels from nursery school through college. This information is used to measure current trends in education and to determine the need for additional or expanded educational facilities. The questions on education will be in addition to those asked regularly in the monthly survey on employment and unemployment conducted nationwide by the Bureau for the U.S. Department of Labor.

Results of the monthly employment survey provide data on conditions in the labor force, prime indicators of the economic health of the country. For example, in August the survey indicated that of the 100.5 million men and women in the civilian labor force, 94.6 million were employed. The Nation's unemployment rate was 5.9 percent, down from 6.8 percent in July.

Personal information supplied in the survey is kept strictly confidential by law and results are used only to compile statistical totals.

Interviewers who will visit households in this area include: Doris Rosenberg, Selma Leavitt, and Lois Robinson.

Baby Gators lose, face Moore Haven

BELLE GLADE—Despite a fairly even game so far as statistics are concerned, the Glades Day JV football team lost to LaBelle 25-6 last Thursday.

Coach Dick Schmidt said the Gators had a good drive going in the first quarter, but lost the ball on downs at the LaBelle 20.

In the second quarter, LaBelle got a touchdown but missed the extra points try and the third was pretty much even.

LaBelle exploded for two more scores in the fourth quarter, one coming as the result of a Glades Day fumble that the Cowboys recovered, but the Gators got six points on a 54 yard pass play from Scott Meredith to Ronnie Cameron.

In total offense, LaBelle racked up 220 yards to the Gators' 209.

Herick led the Gators with 73 yards rushing followed by Julio Rivas with 25.

Schmidt said he gave some of his younger charges an opportunity to play during the last quarter. On defense, Darrel Moore had seven tackles and an assist, Arnold Moore had five tackles and an assist, and Herick had six tackles and four assists.

Christian pioneer recalls the hurricane of 1928

By Roy E. Hudson

On a dark night in the month of June 1928, a loud knock sounded at my door. I arose from my comfortable seat and looked outside. A courteous voice sounded and I was looking into the face of a tall, middle-aged man. Addressing me as Mr. Roy, he said "I hear that you are leaving for Columbus, Ohio tomorrow and I wanted to see you before you got away. May I use the large house on the farm for evangelistic purposes this summer?" The negro who's name was Alex Gator concluded. With permission to use the building obtained, this lay preacher walked away with a thank you on his lips, while I walked back in the house and set down.

The next morning with suitcases loaded in my Ford roadster I headed North. After three long days and one night of hard driving my destination was reached. A couple of days after my arrival in Columbus I went down to the Buckeye Stages Bus Company's shop to see the boys that I used to work with. The service manager saw me and asked if I would consider going back to work as one of the men was absent due to illness: The season's farming operation in the glades of Florida had been a successful one but in spite of this and my plans to return within a few weeks, I accepted the job. Within a few days I could be seen in overalls with an assistant, servicing buses when they came in from their runs. As the summer was about to come to a close the Company transferred me to Cincinnati.

On September 19th while riding home with my father in our car, a newsboy sold us a paper as we were waiting for a traffic light to change. He was shouting, "Read all about it, 3000 people drowned in Florida Hurricane." As I drove home my father read out loud the report of the storm and part of the casualty list. On the list were such names as Mr. Wilder, Joe Rashley, Mrs. Thigpen and many others well known to us. I exclaimed to my father, "Why they were neighbors of ours!"

In early November when the leaves were falling and early winter had almost set in my father and I headed South again and back to Florida. As we arrived in West Palm Beach and turned Westward to the Glades the storm damage became apparent. Houses and buildings were blown down and the debris and wreckage was scattered everywhere. The land was still submerged although it had been two months since the Hurricane struck with all its fury. When it arrived in South Bay, a small town of about 150 inhabitants, two miles short of our farm we stopped. What a sight of destruction we beheld and the stories we heard. All the houses and buildings except two had been blown down or blown away. A five room house had been blown across a sixty foot canal. The storm had struck in the middle of a dark night. The water rose to a height of ten feet, with a wind of 125 miles per hour, plus torrential rains, and washed nearly all the buildings, trees, and animal life away. Most of the town's residents that still survived had gotten on a barge that was anchored in the canal. By continual beailing all night had managed to keep a float and themselves alive. They were living in Red Cross tents and eating Red Cross groceries. My father and I got a tent, signed up for groceries and joined the group.

After a wooden floor had been made and our tent pitched, we established a semblance of house keeping. The state road that went by our farm was still under water. We bought a row boat to use for transportation until the roads were passable. The first trip by boat using the canal that paralleled the road, we really took notice of the surroundings. All land marks were washed away except an occasional tree. We recognized our farm headquarters by a bend in the canal and the stumps of what had been a banana tree thicket. All buildings had been washed away. We found the place where our house had been. Part of one bed and part of one dresser was all that remained. Later we found two-thirds of the roof, it had been blown away in two sections and was about three-fourths of a mile away. We lived in the tent for several months and then built a two bedroom home of more substantial construction, with some financial help from the Red Cross, a policy all the neighbors followed. My Mother and brother, Arnold, arrived from Ohio and we established house-keeping on a much more satisfactory basis.

Upon our arrival from the North and immediately after our inspection of the farm we began to inquire about the Negro families that had lived there at the time of the storm, comprising about fifteen individuals. All but one person had lost their life and the individual was still in the hospital after eight weeks. So to West Palm Beach we went to see Daniel Saunders and to get a thrilling and sad story.

On the night the storm struck this man was entertaining a friend by the name of George Williams. When the water got three feet deep and the house began to float away from its foundation those men had to vacate quickly. That was the last of George Williams, he was never seen again. Daniel Saunders walked toward a light and kept on going through the darkness and water, finally bumping into an uprooted tree. Climbing high in its roots with rain coming down in torrents, the wind whistling, and drifting debris and wreckage bumping into him, occasionally snakes would wrap themselves around his legs and arms seeking a refuge from the raging elements. Under these circumstances this man spent the night and was rescued the following day and taken to the hospital. We asked Daniel Saunders, a Seventh Day Adventist Christian, about the light that guided him. He said that the Lord had sent an angel to direct him as there was absolutely nothing in that direction to make a light that night, and the light had disappeared when he reached the tree.

What happened to Alex Gator and the evangelistic service that was held was the next question that came to my mind? Upon inquiry Daniel Saunders stated that Alex Gator had worked hard getting things ready and a successful evangelistic campaign had been conducted. At the time of the hurricane twelve converts were ready for baptism.

Who were these converts? I asked, and he began to name them one by one, some were known to me, some were not. As last Lottie Rivers name was mentioned, yes "Lottie Rivers, Daniel Saunders continued, she sure will be glad in the Judgement Day that she accepted Christ as her Saviour," as she surely had been a terribly wicked young woman. Just four days before her death she made her decision for Christ. It was her desire to live and tell the gospel story to others, but the Lord did not see fit to allow this to happen. It sure says to be a Christian, Life is too uncertain to risk living in sin.

"Now, tell me what happened to these twelve converts," I asked? "Alex Gator, besides preaching at night made many calls during the day urging people to repent of their sins and give their hearts to God," the speaker continued. Shortly before the storm struck this lay preacher was heard saying, "If disaster comes here this summer, the people have had their chance to accept Christ as their Saviour."

Near to the close of the Evangelistic meeting a request had been sent in for an ordained minister to come and baptize these believers. Before the minister was able to get there the storm came and every one of them lost their lives including the one who had done the preaching.

This story appears to have a sad ending, however, we believe that it will have a very happy and glorious ending some day in the not too distant future.

The farm where this man died became headquarters for Evangelistic and Welfare work among the colored people. And within the twenty years that followed ninety five converts were won to Christ and by those who accepted Christ there, three or more churches were organized. Many thousands of dollars found their way into the treasury to help carry the gospel to the far corners of the earth.

When Christ, the Righteous Judge, speaks the word, "Well done thou good and faithful servant." I believe that Alex Gator will be there to hear those words spoken to him, and to receive a Crown and reward from the Christ whom he served so faithfully here on earth.

The Protecting LIGHT

This lighted tower is a light shining in the darkness to guide sailors and ships through the night. Our Lord is our light who guides us faithfully through life, even though it be as a stormy sea—He knows the way. His word, as proclaimed in His church, will light your way and bring peace, joy and comfort.

"Thy word is a lamp unto my feet, and a light unto my path." Psalm 119:105.

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the traditions which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

Britton-Cross are wed

Miss Kathy Anne Britton and Bryan Francis Cross were united in marriage, Saturday, Sept. 29, at 7 p.m. in an impressive candlelight ceremony held in the First United Methodist Church of Pahokee. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Britton of Manchester, Kentucky, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Cross, Jr. of Belle Glade.

Rev. Robert Atkins of the First Baptist Church in Belle Glade performed the double ring ceremony before an altar banked with palms. Traditional wedding music was provided by organist Lois Marie Zaccagnino. Mrs. Richard Schmidt sang "Jesus, Joy of Man's Desire" and "Walk Hand in Hand." "The Lord's Prayer" was sung as the couple knelt at the close of the ceremony.

Evening autumn colors, of mauve, violet and brown enhanced the wooden interior decor of the sanctuary. Spiral candelabra flanked either side of the communion table, which was centered with a bouquet of pink roses, snapdragons, mini carnations and babies' breath topped with a five branch candelabra. The altar rail was draped with smilax caught in a swag at each end by mauve satin and dark brown velvet double bows. Two large natural colored fireside baskets filled with pink carnations, asters, heather and dried gypsophila stood on each side of the altar entrance.

As guests entered the foyer and signed the bride's book they were given a wedding scroll by Miss Ad Cross, sister of the groom. The scrolls expressed the couples' gratitude for the participation and prayers of those who attended.

Mrs. Roger Hatton, matron of honor, Mrs. Lynn Reese and Mrs. Jan Wilson, all sisters of the bride and Margaret Cross, sister of the groom, were bridal attendants. They wore identical gowns of ash rose mauve qiana, fashioned in a Grecian style with draping necklines and narrow braided tie belts. Their bouquets were custom designed of chocolate brown velvet ribbon loops and streamers edged in ecru lace, forming an outline for a crescent of pink roses, heather, dried gypsophila and sprigs of fresh smilax. Their hairpieces of ecru and brown silk flowers were designed in a half circle.

Laura Hatton, the bride's niece, was flower girl. Her dress was an old-fashioned rose print topped with an ecru lace pinafore. Her hairpiece of silk flowers was identical to those of the other attendants. She carried a basket filled with pink rose petals.

The bride was escorted to the altar by her father. She wore a silk marquise, candlelit-colored, wedding gown in a turn-of-the-century Victorian design. The bodice featured a high neck and deep yoke, tucked front and back edged in lace. The long sleeves were gathered into a wide lace cuff. A satin sash that tied in the back, accented the full skirt with two deep tiers at the hemline. Her shoulder length illusion veil fell from a half circlet of silk flowers. The bride's bouquet was a multi-looped bow of wide candlelit satin ribbon, each loop studded with a brown lipped, mauve vanda orchid, outlined with dried gypsophila and intertwined with heather.

The groom's father, Francis Cross, served as best man. J.P. Sasser, Ronnie Lottes and Jose Antuna were groomsmen. Adrian Reese, nephew of the bride was ring bearer. The men wore candlelit colored formal attire with rose and heather boutonnieres.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Calvin Britton chose a dress of chocolate brown voile, random printed in rose and turquoise. Her corsage was a double cattleya fireball orchid trimmed with gold.

Mrs. Francis Cross, the groom's mother, wore a gown of vivid silk print with jewel neckline. Her corsage was white phalaenopsis orchids.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the church courtyard. The bride's table was covered with an ecru lace cloth, centered with a silver four branch candelabra holding a free style arrangement of pink roses, mini carnations and babies' breath. Smilax garlands draped from the centerpiece to the corners of the table and were held by pink and brown wedding bows. Guests were served punch from a silver bowl. The three tiered wedding cake was topped by a miniature pink floral arrangement.

Hostesses serving refreshments were Mrs. Donald Moss, Dottie Elliott, Cynthia Turbeville and Maureen McNulty.

Following a wedding trip to Niagara Falls and the New England states the couple will reside in Pahokee, where Mr. Cross is branch manager of Everglades Federal Savings and Loan Association and the bride is employed at the Rose Petal Florist Shop.

Out of town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Harvey H. Benton of Lake Worth, Mr. and Mrs. Allan M. Ruckmer of Clearwater, Mrs. J.H. Lockhart of Williston, Mr. and Mrs. W.C. Bamford of Stuart, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Joyce of Vero Beach, Mrs. Chris Evans, Mrs. Jan Walters, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Walters and family, all of Leesburg, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Brock of Lake Worth, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Apeigen of North Palm Beach, and Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Hatton of Loxahatchee.

Employees cited for tot's rescue

BELLE GLADE — Four city employees were recognized Monday night by the City Commission for their parts in rescuing a two-year old child and his grandfather recently and other employee received service pins recognizing years of service.

Mayor Tom Altman signed a resolution commending Stan Whitlock, Bonnie Hughes, Eddie Becton and Thomas Rogers for pulling Jessie Lee Padgett, two, and his grandfather, Clarence Padgett to safety from a car submerged in a canal at the city marina.

Jessie Lee had been left in the automobile, with the engine running, when his mother, Betty Padgett, 20, of 833 N.W. 27th St., went into Slim's Store to buy some soft drinks.

The youngster managed to shift the car's transmission into low range and the car rolled into the canal, with the elder Padgett climbing on the roof of the sinking car to attempt to get the toddler out.

Padgett finally managed to get the car door open and get young Jessie Lee out but ran into trouble when a thick blanket of hyacinths covering the canal impeded his swimming.

Becton and Rogers jumped into the canal, followed by Hughes and Whitlock. The men pulled the child to the shore, then each of the men were pulled in one at a time.

Altman also recognized a number of other city employees for their longevity of service with the city, presenting pins to each based on the number of years of employment.

Receiving for 20 years of employment were Maude Vereen, William Abel and Johnny Rutledge. Ten year employees honored were John Youngblood and Jessie Brown.

Five year pins were presented to Sharon Bramlett, James Cannon, Isaac Jones, Calvin Stambaugh, Thomas Walker, Jesse Womack and Samson Gary.

Altman also singled out six other employees, who didn't receive pins but had been with the city a number of years. He mentioned Donel White, with 22 years, Harvey Matthews with 27 years, Garland Kellar and Frank Anderson with 28 years each and Charles Goodlett and Cecil Bair, each with 30 years.

THE GLADES WAY

You make it Possible

What is United Way?

The United Way is a locally based voluntary effort, developed over the years to raise funds efficiently, to allocate those funds effectively, and to plan and coordinate health and welfare programs completely.

Last year, United Way of Palm Beach County raised over $900,000 to finance 33 local health, welfare and recreation services which serve 180,000 families.

United Way planning organizations seek continually to coordinate and balance the programs and services of all health and welfare agencies regardless of how they are financed or the auspices under which they operate.

Both governmental and voluntary organizations are involved.

The funds raised are allocated on the basis of community need and are allocated by volunteer men and women who visit the agencies, review their budgets, and meet with agency representatives.

"Thousands of men and women from all walks of life," in all ages, are United Way volunteers. They serve in agency programs and on boards and committees to guide the work and set policies.

The United Way is Palm Beach County's means of dealing with human problems, relying on volunteer initiative, commitment, responsibility and participation. It is a system by which people help their neighbors voluntarily. It develops new ways to solve old and new problems. It involves citizens in strengthening and integrating the health and social programs of both governmental and voluntary organizations.

Services supported by the United Way include family counseling, day care for children, rehabilitation for the handicapped, Salvation Army, Boy and Girl Scouts, Red Cross, Urban League, health research, U.S.O., special inner city programs for the poor and minority groups, YM and YWCA's, scholarships and job training.

UNITED WAY - IT'S FOR ALL OF US!

Mrs. Mitchell speaks

BELLE GLADE—Anita Mitchell, Republican candidate for the state House of Representatives, District 82, told the local Rotary Club members pretty much what they wanted to hear in a speech Tuesday.

Mrs. Mitchell is the wife of former astronaut Edgar Mitchell, the sixth man to walk on the surface of the moon.

"The American dream is not dead," she told the Rotary. "If my husband can work his way through college and wind up walking on the moon and a small-town girl like me can find herself running for the state house, the American dream is not dead."

Mrs. Mitchell described herself as a fiscal conservative and said she feels like people should pay their share to government, then be left alone by the bureaucrats. "I was told that to win I'd have to have a giveaway program," she said. "Well, I'm here to tell you I don't have one. All I can guarantee is that I will be a strong, fiscally conservative voice for you in Tallahassee."

She said her Democratic opponent, Eugene Campbell, believes in casino gambling and a state income tax. "If he believes in this tax," she asked, "what other taxes will he vote for?"

On the agribusiness question, Mrs. Mitchell said she is in favor of the Green Belt laws, does not favor a sales tax of feed or fertilizer, favors the Right to Work bill, the elected cabinet and is opposed to state aid to labor organizations along with the personal income tax.

Mrs. Mitchell received a great deal of applause at the end of her speech.

City balks

BELLE GLADE—Members of the City Commission balked Monday night at a demand by the US Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) that the city immediately pay $16,636 to the city's Community Development program.

The demand came in the wake of the sentencing of former CD Director George Gartner III, who pled no contest to misappropriating the funds last year before accepting a job as head of the Palm Beach County Community Development program.

Gartner was ordered last month by Circuit Judge Carl Harper to repay the money as part of his sentence last month. The sentence also includes being placed on ten years probation with two weeks to be spent in jail during each of the ten years.

City Manager Robert R. Sanders told the commissioners Monday night that current CD Director Remar Harvin had been in contact with HUD officials and suggested HUD could either accept repayment directly from Gartner or that the city could repay the amount as the city receives it from Gartner.

Sanders said a letter from HUD officials in Jacksonville, however, said both those solutions were unacceptable and "proposed" the city repay the entire amount immediately.

Sanders said the city had bonded Gartner in the amount of $10,000, which would still leave the city owing HUD $6,636.

"My first thought," Mayor Tom Altman said, "is to tell HUD to take it up with the judge who made the ruling. Is there anything wrong with telling them we don't have the money now? What are they going to do, bite our heads off?"

"I agree the money has to be reimbursed," he went on, "but for HUD to tell us when and how when we don't know how the judge ordered it to be repaid; that's too much."

Commissioner Claude Tindall agreed with Altman, saying he'd, "like to know we had to do it before we do it."

City Attorney John Baker suggested the commission give him time to research the law and the agreements between HUD and the city to find what the city's obligations are in case of criminal action before the commission makes a decision.

"I want an opportunity to study the right of HUD in making this demand," Baker told the commissioners, "and that's what it is. It isn't a request."

"I feel the federal government has an almost unlimited number of sanctions available." Baker went on, pointing out one of those sanctions would be to cut off Community Development funding.

When Gartner was charged with grand larceny last year, he was accused of setting up a dummy consulting firm, GPM Systems, and writing more than $13,000 worth of checks to the corporation.

Sources in the County State's Attorney's office said at the time Gartner spent the money on a phony solar energy study. Harvin and Sanders began the investigation of Gartner when they couldn't find the study.

Corps

Munis said one is planned in Jacksonville) they enter a new kind of life completely different from the non-structured environments they probably left.

At the center, a fact sheet says, they are required to get up at a certain time and eat at a designated hour. The food may not be what they're accustomed to and they take part in physical training classes, hobby groups and student government meetings as well as vocational and educational classes.

While they're at the center, Munis said, the corpsmembers receive a monthly stipend of $30, which is increased to $50 after six months. They are also credited with $50 per month which is paid into an account they receive on graduation, to help them get started.

Once corpsmembers complete their training, Munis said, FSES doesn't drop them.

"We start out with the idea they'll be returning here," he said, "and we try to get them to take training they can expect to use once they get back."

"Since this area is so heavily agriculture-oriented, we stress things like heavy equipment repairs," Munis said, "and once they get back, we try to place them in a job where they can use their skills."

The list of potential areas of study offered by the Corps reads alphabetically from automotive trades to sheet metal working and includes other trades such as baking, construction skills, cosmetology, household appliance repair, nursing aide and retail sales.

Of the three people inducted into the program Monday, Fred Lawler, Jr., 16, son of Fred Lawler of 414 Shirley Dr. in Pahokee, said he will be going to the Breckinridge Center at Morgantown, Ky. to study electricity with an eye to using it in construction.

Lawler isn't completely unfamiliar with the Corps. He said he has a cousin who is already in Breckinridge.

Paul Hendrix, Jr., 17, of 400 E. Seventh St. in Pahokee, said he is going to the Turner Center at Albany, Ga. to study welding.

Aleathia A. Ellick, 20, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Vickers of 250 SW Fifth Ave. in South Bay, said she is also attending Turner, where she will work towards becoming a nurse's aide.

Besides their vocational classes, Munis said the three, like all corpsmembers, will attend classes to prepare them to take GED exams to earn a high school equivalency diploma.

"We know how important high school diplomas are to employers today," Munis said, "and that's given as much emphasis as vocational studies."

More than 700,000 young Americans have received Job Corps training. How successful has it been? Figures indicate 93 percent of all graduates have been placed in jobs using their newly found skills.

Astronaut to speak

BELLE GLADE—Former astronaut Edgar Mitchell is scheduled to speak to the Belle Glade Lions Club Wednesday at noon, showing slides he took when walking on the surface of the moon on the last manned lunar Apollo mission.

Club member Charles Ward said this will probably be the highlight program of the year for the Lions. He said Mitchell's wife, Anita Mitchell, will be accompanying the astronaut.

Mrs. Mitchell is the Republican candidate for the District 82 Florida House of Representatives seat and Ward said she will probably also speak.

Cities okay sewer study

Members of the Belle Glade and South Bay City Commissions agreed over the past week to take part in and pay their share of studies, in conjunction with the county, designed to pinpoint infiltration points in the two cities' sewer systems.

The SSES (Sewer System Evaluation Study) is an integral part of the 201 waste water pollution control study being done for the entire western portion of Palm Beach County, with the county acting as leading agent.

In South Bay, the SSES will cost a total of $11,100, $3,700 of which will be paid by the city. The South Bay City Commission signed the agreement last Thursday in a special meeting.

The Belle Glade City Commission approved its agreement with the county during Monday night's regular meeting. The total cost of the Belle Glade study will be $45,170, of which the city is responsible for $15,000.

Projects

to have already begun construction by the time the city is averaging 90 percent of its potential.

He said the city's water intake pumps can already handle 10 million gallons per day but the lines to the plant are only designed to carry 8 million gallons and the plant is only designed to treat 6 million gallons.

Signon said one thing the city also needs to do is run parallel intake lines to the lake in case there is ever a problem.

Sanders said the city is also looking at an estimated $5.5 million worth of work that has to be accomplished in the near future on the city's sewer system.

That estimate includes a deep well injection system to get rid of effluent from the city's sewer treatment plant, a new treatment plant with a 2 million gallons per day capacity, the removal of the Arrowhead Estates package treatment plant, a new major lift station in the Southwest section which would bypass Lift Station One and repair of lines allowing infiltration of ground water.

Sanders said the city will have help paying for the sewer projects though, once two studies are completed, submitted and approved. He said the city is applying for a package grant which would pay for 75 percent of the costs involved.

"If the project is approved as innovative," Signon said, "they will pay up to 85 percent...and everything we do is innovative, or at least that's how we list them."

Glades Day comes back from loss to whip LaBelle 22-6 Friday

MARK FOSTER boots a 23-yard field goal to put the Glades Day Gators ahead 10-6 in action against LaBelle. Staff Photo

BELLE GLADE — Glades Day head coach Byron Walker said last week if his team could stop LaBelle's passing attack and the Gators could "get up" for the game, the local team could defeat LaBelle.

The Gators proved they could. And they did. LaBelle failed to get much of anything going and the Gators rolled to a 22-6 victory.

Defensive secondary coach Dick Underwood was beaming at his charges intercepted four LaBelle passes and turned three of them into scores.

With the passing attack shut down, LaBelle went to a rushing game but could produce only 22 yards to the Gator's 177.

In the first quarter, Steve Richie set up the Gators by intercepting the first of three passes he grabbed during the evening.

Nacho Bueno did the honors with a four-yard run and Mark Foster tacked on the extra point to give the Gators a 7-0 lead midway through the quarter.

LaBelle showed signs of life, however, when on the kickoff the Cowboys broke down the right sideline and outran the defenders for a 73 yard touchdown. The extra point pass failed and the Gator lead had been cut to a slim one.

But in the second quarter, the Gators exploded for 15 points.

The first three came when the Gators ground down to the LaBelle 28 and began meeting stiff opposition. Mark Foster was called upon and booted a field goal for three.

Another interception set up the next touchdown, which Steve Richie forced over from the two. A conversion attempt failed and late in the same period, still another interception gave the Gators excellent field position.

They drove down, then Bueno got his second touchdown of the evening on a ten yard run around the left end. Bueno set up his own touchdown by a 30-yard gain the play before.

Foster's kick failed and the Gators went out at the half with a 22-6 lead.

LaBelle could get nothing much going following the half and while the Gators continued to push them all over the field, could not reach paydirt themselves.

After it was all over, the score stood at 22-6.

"I only wish we had played this well two weeks ago," commented Coach Walker. "If we had, we would have easily taken Benjamin."

Benjamin defeated the Gators 14-12 in a district 79A game and complicated the district standings by boosting Westminster to first place and giving the Gators a berth with two others in a three-way split for second.

Walker credited the defense with the victory, saying four interceptions (three by Richie and one by Ed Ballard) gave the Gators excellent field possession and set up the scoring.

Kenny Strickland led the home-town team in tackling, getting eight with two more assists and two sacks but Walker noted "everybody contributed" really well with most of the defenders getting at least three unassisted tackles apiece.

Walker also singled out Mark Foster, who played with the first team during the game and "did a good job."

On offense, Walker said the line can be given credit for opening the necessary holes and giving ample protection to the running backs.

Billy Sanchez, Doug Tanner, Greg Glisson, Kenny Strickland, Bruce Sweet, and Mark Allen all did excellent jobs "up front," said Walker.

Nacho Bueno hoofed it for 79 yards in 14 carries to lead the rushing attack and passed six times for two completions and no interceptions. The passes were good for 66 yards, a 51 yarder tagged by Jon Scruggs and a 15-yarder that fell into Richie's hands.

The rest of the backs all "looked good," said Walker, with each averaging 34 or 35 yards.

Johnny Rowe plays again

Raiders remain unbeaten

BELLE GLADE — The Glades Central Raiders, unbeaten in four games, will play their first non-conference game at 3 p.m. Saturday against Miami Pace after shutting out Fort Pierce Westwood, 21-0 Friday.

Running back Johnny Rowe was back in the game against Westwood, scoring two touchdowns, after his eligibility was confirmed late Friday afternoon.

The letter from Florida High School Activities Association Executive Secretary Floyd Lay, according to Glades Central Principal Ed Grear, said Rowe was eligible to play as of last Friday's game because of extenuating circumstances but the first two games of the year, those were 21-6 and 28-6 wins over Atlantic and Jupiter. They were forfeited by the FHSAA, giving the Raiders an official conference record of 2-2 for the year.

Rowe's father, S/Sgt. Johnnie L. Rowe, saw his son play varsity ball for the first time in the Westwood game, walking the sideline. Sgt. Rowe had been granted emergency leave from his Army base near Stuttgart, Germany to be with his son during the controversy over his eligibility.

Sgt. Rowe said Monday he doesn't know if he will attempt any further action to appeal or argue the forfeiture of the Atlantic and Jupiter games. "I have to talk to some people first," he said.

Dr. Grear said the school had done all it could, that taking the matter to the FHSAA executive committee was the same as appealing the decision.

In the Westwood game, the Raider offense couldn't put the ball in the end zone until the second quarter, when a 19-yard run by Carl Harper put the team on the scoring track, setting up a 17-yard touchdown run the next play by Rowe.

Those two runs capped a 55-yard drive by the Raiders, made in seven plays. Wilford Morgan kicked the extra point and the Raiders led, 7-0 with 8:09 left in the second quarter.

But once the Glades Central team scored, the second came easily.

The second score of the game was set up by the interception of a Panther pass three plays into the next series by Willie Gibson. Gibson snagged the pass at the Westwood 35 and ran it down to the 19 before he was hauled down.

A run by Rowe netted nothing on the next play and a Terry Hammond pass was no good. On the third down, Rowe ran to the nine, picking up the first down, then carried the ball to the one on the next play. Hammond kept the ball on the next play and bucked it into the end zone. The point-after kick failed and the Raiders led the game, 13-0 with five minutes left in the half.

Another scoring drive was broken up by the half-time whistle as Hammond threw a pass to Willie Williams. Williams caught the pass for what looked to many like another touchdown but he came down on the far side of the end zone.

The third quarter was highlighted by defensive plays, beginning by a third down pass interception on the first series by Greg Bain at his own 48 yard line.

In the next few minutes, Hammond was sacked five yards behind his line of scrimmage, the Raiders were forced to punt but recovered the ball on their own 30 after the short, wobbly punt was fumbled, then turned around and fumbled three plays later.

Two plays later, Willie Gibson made his second interception of the night but that was evened out three plays later when Hammond had his second pass interception of the night by a big defensive player who galloped almost 30 yards before being pulled down. Fortunately for the Raiders, there was a flag on that play and the ball was brought back to their own 40.

Four plays later, Hector Santana knocked down a Panther pass and the ball went over on downs and the Raider offense got back in the game.

The Raiders took over on their own 45 and were promptly pushed back to the 40 by a flag and an incomplete pass. On the second play, Hammond found Willie Williams on the Panther 24 for a 36-yard pass completion.

Rowe slashed through the Westwood line for a 19-yard run to the Panther five, hammered over on the next play to the one and put the game on ice for the Raiders one play later when he went in from the one. Morgan's point-after was no good but the Raiders led, 19-0 with 10:52 left in the game.

Glades Central threatened again late in the fourth quarter when Bain accepted a punt on his own 45 yard line and ran it back to the Westwood 53 before the last Panther tackler between him and the goal pulled him down.

Rowe promptly carried the ball to the Panther 19, Archie Godfrey picked up a yard and Rowe carried again to the 12 and a first down. A Gerry Hammond pass to Jeff Henderson was incomplete but Row slammed through the right side of the line to the seven.

On third down, a Hammond-Bain pass was incomplete on the one but the official called pass interference and the Raiders took the ball on the Panther three and a first down.

On first down, Rowe was stacked up on the four and he only managed to make the line of scrimmage on second down. On third and goal, Rowe picked up three yards to the Panther one and Hammond failed to put the ball into the end zone on a keeper, turning the ball over to the Panthers with 2:03 left in the game.

Freddie Garrett posted the defense's first points of the game on the next play when he sacked the Panther ball carrier in the end zone and the Raiders picked up a two-point safety with 1:45 left in the game.

CARL HARPER is dragged down on the Westwood 17-yard line, setting up Glades Central's first touchdown one play later, after racing 19 yards in one of the Raiders' first long-yardage plays Friday night.

Devils beat North Shore

PAHOKEE — Friday night's 21-8 win for the Blue Devils over the North Shore Mustangs was the type that turns coaches' hair prematurely grey.

After a strong two-game winning streak, the Blue Devils floundered for two quarters before getting fired up in the second half to pull off a victory.

"We had a great opportunity Friday night, but we didn't cash in on it until the end," Pahokee Coach Antoine Russell explained. "We were not carrying out the execution of plays and not making key blocks."

Pahokee's first half fiasco only netted the team two points when a Mustang punter was trapped in his end zone. However, North Shore was also unable to score, resulting in a 2-0 halftime lead for the Blue Devils.

Statistically, Pahokee had only accumulated only two first down, while losing 11 yards in rushing. The Mustang offense was equally lacking. North Shore's only threat came in the first quarter when it got as far as the Pahokee 14-yard-line before losing the ball on a fumble.

Russell said the Blue Devils got back in the game in the third quarter with a couple of quick scores.

A six play, 60-yard drive midway through the quarter gave Pahokee an 8-0 lead. Sylvester Kelly made that 13-yard final plunge over the goal line.

Kelly also came up with the Blue Devils' second touchdown when the Mustangs' fourth fumble gave Pahokee the ball on the North Shore 39. Kelly took three runs to get it in from there, the last one from the 27-yard-line.

Pahokee's final score came midway in the fourth quarter when quarterback Ronnie Osborne threw a 7-yard touchdown pass to Stafford Everett.

North Shore subsequently put its only score on the board when Pahokee backup quarterback Steven Hatton gave the Mustangs the ball on the Blue Devil 33-yard-line. A 21-yard pass from quarterback Fred Lovely set the team up for a follow-up 6-yard touchdown pass to Wade Williams with 1:43 left.

After the game, Russell said Kelly managed to come up with 84 of the Blue Devils 124 rushing yards. Ronnie Osborne followed up with 32-yards, and Joe Miller ran for 20.

Defensively, Frank Walker led the team with eight tackles and seven assists.

Russell complimented two rookie players, Clinton Wilson (10th grade) and Larry Barnes (11th grade) for playing a tremendous game.

"It was a little tougher game than we expected," Russell said.

Bassmasters catch fish in bad weather

BELLE GLADE — Despite rough water and a high north wind, Darrell Mathis and John Davis took 30 pounds, six ounces of bass Sunday to lead the field in a local Bassmasters fishing tournament.

Sonny Campbell and J.B. Tyler took second place honors with 16 pounds, 12 ounces in the seven-place boat tournament.

The tournament was held out of J-Mark Marina in Belle Glade.

Anyone interested in joining the local bass fishing club is invited to contact Dan May at May's Bait and Tackle for information.

Interception blows hopes for Christian Day 14-6

BELLE GLADE — A last-minute interception by John Carroll blew away the Christian Day School's chance of catching up, but despite the 14-6 loss, Coach Ken Lassiter wasn't disappointed in his team's effort.

"They were just like I said last week," said Lassiter, "big and tough, but we held them and almost caught up in the last quarter."

What Lassiter was referring to was a first and goal situation that occurred in the last minute. But an interception by Carroll ended the Crusader threat and preserved the victory.

The game began with a healthy Carroll drive which wound up on the Crusader 20, but the defense got tough and threw the visitors for two successive losses and Carroll turned the ball over on downs.

The first quarter see-sawed back and forth and midway through the second, the first score of the afternoon was set up by a face mask call against Christian Day that moved the ball to the Crusader 16.

Carroll ran it over and got the two-point conversion for a halftime score of 8-0.

Early in the third quarter, another penalty set up the second Carroll touchdown, this one, an 11-yard run. The extra point effort was held back and Carroll led 14-0.

But in the fourth quarter, quarterback Kent Davis fired a pass to Tony Duboy good for 39 yards and a touchdown. The extra point pass attempt was incomplete and time was running out.

On their next possession, the Crusaders drove down, then had the fateful interception which ended their threat.

Even so, the hometown team racked up 146 yards total offense to Carroll's 88 and passed for 35 yards to the visitors' nine.

Across the board in statistics, the Crusaders equaled or bettered their opponents, with 41 offensive plays to 39; both teams losing one fumble each; and both teams having 30 rushing plays each.

On defense, Lassiter singled out Steve Woods and Bill Evans for praise. Woods made seven unassisted tackles and Evans was switched to defensive end, where he got five and did a "good, all-around job."

On offense, Davis had a good game at quarterback and at fullback a position change Lassiter is working on now.

The head coach said he has upgraded Alex Morales to quarterback and Morales played a quarter against Carroll and did a good job.

Morales will gain additional experience in games to come. This Friday at 8, the Crusaders will go against Fort Myers Canterbury in Fort Myers, a varsity team.

Lassiter said he had watched Canterbury play and they are a small team which executes their offensive plays very well.

But he is hopeful of a victory Friday and said he is pleased with his team as a whole.
